I found a must stop to do this week for my scrapbook room. The Sena brand, 4-quart quiche size food processor. I cannot remember the price, but it was reasonable. Did you know this is the same model I bought the first time I had a food processor. I loved mine, but it didn't last me long. I thought for sure I would just get another at some point, but now it is needed in my kitchen! It has a lot of power and I love that it is still made in the USA. I know you are saying "What on earth, you need that much power for a quiche?" Well, I am not the only one who likes a little more power than the normal quiches I make. I use the 4-1/2 quart for the pumpkin pies! 4 comments: My food processor cost about $100 when I got it, but it's been around a long time and the feed slots have never jammed. After it became difficult to find some models, a company began making different models with feed slots that were actually things like a coffee bean grinder, so they weren't moving parts like the old ones. I really liked the one I bought in Section F.7 of the terms and conditions outlines the conditions of AppleCare+ and states that Apple will pay for or reimburse the cost of services and parts if Apple determines the damage was caused by an unauthorized repair. "If Apple determines that the damage is due to an unauthorized repair, or your Service Provider or any Authorized Service Provider, or repair facility or service operation," the section reads, "Apple will pay the cost of the repair or replacement of parts, or provide reimbursement of the cost of the parts directly to you." AppleCare+ costs start at $99 for 1 year and $139 for 2 years. FTC: We use income earning auto affiliate links. More.
