OC DNA consists of two main parts – the "Cloud" and "Notes". The "Cloud" provides a custom OC-DNA account and saves all overclocking settings, videos and live overclocking sessions. The "Notes" gives you the ability to save OC-DNA profile for your friends or anyone who wants to use your system performance boost. You can also open the "Notes" from the "Cloud" to edit the settings. Download the OC DNA now and experience its full power. Note: You have to have a unique OC-DNA account, before you download the OC DNA. Hi guys, I'm not an expert but I was able to save and load my OC profile easily and I like how I can share my overclocked settings. I'm sharing this, because I love that you can save your OC settings, that's why I bought OC DNA. I hope it is helpful Hi. I bought a new OC-DNA account and was wondering whether it's possible to store only your OC settings. For example, you set your Voltage for 1.350 V with 6-8 degrees. This is probably the core, memory voltage. So for the future, I don't have to remember all the different voltages and degrees. Now it looks like I have to change all the settings that I want to save. Do I have to save each of the OC settings in one OC-DNA account? Because there are more than 20 OC-DNA accounts (there's the car account, the cpu account, the graphics card account, the motherboard account, etc.) Hey, guys, I can save my OC settings easily now, I just installed OC-DNA. I was wondering how many OC-DNA accounts are needed. Because there are more than 20 accounts. I'm not an expert but I can see that there are more than one account. You can create an OC profile of your Core and Memory to share it with others. I can understand that you can save it easily by creating an account.
