It is common to mount the door of a refrigerator or freezer appliance to the refrigerator cabinet by means of a hinge. Usually, this hinge is mounted on the door and the cabinet so that the door can pivot from a closed to an open position relative to the cabinet. It is also common to use a second hinge mounted on the cabinet for opening or closing the door which extends generally perpendicularly from the cabinet. The hinge on the door should be constructed to be relatively strong to resist the forces exerted by the door when it is in the closed position against the refrigerator cabinet and to be relatively light in weight to permit ready opening and closing of the door. It is an object of the present invention to provide an improved refrigerator door hinge which is relatively strong and light.
