Q: Limit of $\sum_{k=1}^{\infty} k^2 x^{-k}$ I am trying to figure out the following limit: $\lim_{x \rightarrow \infty} \sum_{k=1}^{\infty} k^2 x^{-k}$ I need to set this up as an integral, but have no idea where to go from here. A: $\lim_{x \rightarrow \infty} \sum_{k=1}^{\infty} k^2 x^{-k} = \lim_{x \rightarrow \infty} \frac{x^{-1}}{1-x^{-1}} = 1.$ A major funding source for the Aaliyah Foundation and the private bodybuilding community has released a statement explaining its stance on bodybuilding and steroid use. According to Bodybuilding.com, The Aaliyah Foundation has "no problem" with steroid use and they are fully supportive of their members' achievements in the field. The statement comes after Ms. Tyson's claims of conflict with Bodybuilding.com following an article she published with TMZ. The article described her as a defector. She claims to be dissatisfied with the state of bodybuilding. "I don't like the state of bodybuilding," she said. "I am only disappointed in the state of bodybuilding now, because the bodybuilding community as a whole had no control over the events that occurred. "And now, we see the drug scandals and the steroid scandals. I think that this sport is in need of recovery. I think the sport needs to be cleaned up and I think we should bring some integrity to bodybuilding and we should have some power and we should own this sport." Tyson's explosive interview on TMZ included claims she sees just 30 to 50% of bodybuilders turning to steroids. "You can either be extremely self-conscious and be heavily into steroids, or you can be a normal person and build muscle without steroids," she said. The foundation's statement disagreed with her assessment. "Certainly, Aaliyah herself was not against the use of steroids. The foundation has no problem with the use of performance enhancing drugs," the statement read. "The use of steroids has obviously always been part of bodybuilding and,

Q: How to receive the response from a call to a RESTful api and return it in NodeJS? I am trying to make a request to a REST API (third party service) and return the response as a string. The service calls works fine, but when I try to do it in NodeJS, I get only "undefined". I don't have access to the source code of this, so I can't just copy the URL and change it. I will give the code that is not working: `app.get('/', (req, res) => { res.json(global.x.getDemoAccount(req.x)); });` Where: `x => this.list` of a number of objects `global.x => object of x` The structure of `x` is the same as the one of the server response, i.e.: `{ id: 32, firstName: 'Filip', lastName: 'Măzăreanu', email: 'filip.mazareanu@xxx.com' }` The function `getDemoAccount` which is not returning anything is: `function getDemoAccount(x) { return new Promise((resolve, reject) => { request.get(x.id, (error, response, body) => { if(error) { reject(error); } else { try { resolve(body); } catch (err) { reject(err); } } })); } }` What am I doing wrong? A: You should update your callbacks to use the promise api, which
