dalvik.system.NativeStart.main(Native Method) A: When you compiled your android application, you should have the following two extra lines : `ApplicationInfo app = context.getPack ageManager().getApplicationInfo(context.getPackageName(), 0); intent.setPackage(app.packageName);` You will also need to use `intent.setPackage(context.getPackageName());` instead of `intent.setPackage("Your package");` This forces the application to only be started by your application and not any other application installed on the device. If you don't use those 2 lines, the application will always get started when the user launches one of your other apps. FILED NOT FOR PUBLICATION JUN 20
