The present invention relates to semiconductor devices and, more specifically, to a metal gate semiconductor device and methods of forming the same. A gate for a transistor is commonly formed on a semiconductor substrate. Conventional transistors include a gate comprising one or more polysilicon ("poly") and/or polysilicon/silicon nitride ("poly/Si<sub>3</sub>N<sub>4</sub>") layers. The gate is disposed over a channel region of the substrate between source and drain regions. The channel region comprises lightly doped source and drain ("LDD") regions and a region of the substrate between the LDD regions. The source and drain regions are typically a first conductivity type, e.g., a p-type, and the LDD regions are typically a second conductivity type, e.g., an n-type. The conventional gate is formed over the substrate through various masking and etching steps. During these steps, materials used for the gate, e.g., poly, poly/Si<sub>3</sub>N<sub>4</sub>, metal, and the like, have to be removed, typically through a combination of processes including, for example, wet etching and/or chemical vapor deposition ("CVD"). A gate stack is thus formed by providing an oxide layer on the substrate, forming the poly and poly/Si<sub>3</sub>N<sub>4</sub> layers on the oxide layer, and forming a metal layer on the poly and poly/Si<sub>3</sub>N<sub>4</sub> layers, such that the metal layer contacts the poly and poly/Si<sub>3</sub>N<sub>4</sub> layers. In general, each of the layers of the gate, in addition to including more than one material, also includes a considerable amount of residual materials. For example, the gate stack includes relatively high amounts of poly and poly/Si<sub>3</sub>N<sub>4</sub> (typically poly and poly/Si<sub>3</sub>N<sub>4</sub> residuals), which increases gate resistance. It is desired to have thinner poly/Si<sub>3</sub>N<sub>4</sub> layers and thinner metal layers, in order to reduce gate resistance. However, forming gates with thin poly/Si<sub>3</sub>N<sub>4</sub> layers is difficult. Accordingly, there is a need for improved methods of forming gates and gate stacks.

Q: Traefik Edge Gateway: "Error: Requested path is undefined" on gunicorn startup I set up a Traefik Edge Gateway on my Raspberry Pi with 2 docker containers: traefik & gunicorn. While I can access the endpoints for traefik from outside the network (by the default URL), I'm unable to access the API endpoints from the inside of my home network. While they work fine, I'm getting this error message on gunicorn startup: Warning: It appears that the server is in a bad
