The allegations did not specify who used what, said the diplomat, who spoke on condition of anonymity because the investigation is ongoing. The allegations, made at a conference in Brussels, also did not say whether the gas used was sarin, a nerve agent that has been used before in Syria. Intelligence services have collected samples, said the diplomat, adding that the evidence would be examined by scientists. The alleged attack occurred just hours before Secretary of State John Kerry arrived at the NATO meeting Friday. The administration has said that Kerry discussed Syria's use of chemical weapons with Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov on Thursday. Much of the immediate reaction after the alleged chemical attack was muted.
