The FIFA series is the official videogame of the EA SPORTS FIFA League, the official videogame of UEFA EURO 2016™, in association with the Fédération Française de Football, and D&AD Official Creative Director. "The Crew is an action game that will expand your knowledge about how to navigate, maneuver and race in exotic locations, set in a dramatic urban world where you will live, breathe and taste the unknown." - Hideo Kojima, Game Director and Lead Producer at Kojima Productions Coming just in time for the return of the biggest football spectacle of the year, FIFA 20 delivers a fresh new generation of "Experience the Game" innovations. The Kicking Game Inside Your Game Whether you're controlling a defender or supporting striker, your movement has always driven the action of FIFA. With the introduction of the Kicking Game in FIFA 20, taking that movement to a new level of intensity and precision. Simply control the ball in any way you want and your movement will determine how the ball is impacted. Start with a natural flick and get ready to reel it in or flick into a powerful cross. Or flick into a v-cut and find an open teammate. The options are endless. Upgraded Ball Physics In addition to the new Kicking Game, FIFA 20's physics engine has been upgraded, giving the ball better traction and more realistic movement. The new and improved physics will also impact gameplay in new ways, such as allowing players to more closely mimic the way a real-life player might touch the ball and improve the feedback you get from handling the ball. To support the changes, FIFA's Reach system has been enhanced so that opponents will be able to better intercept passes, while players will now be able to more clearly distinguish between a controlled flick and a tip-in. This was the culmination of millions of hours of in-game and real-time data analysis, as well as feedback from an exhaustive round of player testing. Over the last year, FIFA has worked closely with the Fédération Française de Football (FFF), with more than a million hours of player testing and in-game feedback from D&AD, FA and FIFA, as well as over 400,000 hours of data analysis. This new data has transformed how we move, control the ball, receive passes and react to players in the air.
