NOTE Shoppers can use free Adobe Photoshop Lightroom for a simplified workflow. When you're ready to begin editing, first make sure your computer has the necessary software installed. Then follow the instructions in Adobe Photoshop Lightroom. In the following sections, you'll learn the basics of how to use Photoshop's layers and how to achieve simple image effects in Photoshop.

Choosing the right layer for your projects In Photoshop, as in other raster-based programs, an image is made up of a series of rows and columns of individual pixels.

Photoshop enables you to make multiple layers of an image, which are like separate sheets in an 8-by-10-inch sheet of paper. Each layer is independent of the other; you can print, cut, erase, or combine them to form your final image. However, because of their flexibility, creating layers adds complexity and sometimes makes your work seem more difficult than it really is. Creating a layer is easy. The steps are simple: 1. Open an image. 2. Choose Edit⇒Layers⇒New Layer or press Alt+Ctrl+N (Windows) or Option+Shift+N (Mac OS). 3. In the New Layer dialog box that appears, select a layer type (see Chapter 1 for more about the different layer types), and enter a name for the layer, which is different from any other layer name on your image, if you choose. You may also be asked whether you want the layer to be active, or there are other options. 4. Click OK. 5. On the Photoshop workspace, with the new layer active, click the little box to the right of your layer name to see the options available for that layer in the Layers panel. You can also navigate to the Layers panel by selecting

Window⇒Layers. If you select one of the tools on the toolbox, you see a corresponding tool in the Layers panel. If you select the Pen tool, for example, the Pencil tool is displayed. To change the properties of the layer, click the little box to the right of the layer name. Click the Edit button to the right of the layer's thumbnail to open the dialog box shown in Figure 5-2. 6. Click and drag the slider to specify your layer's opacity. Q: Does the Azure API Management Agent SDK Version 1 support document as a parameter type? I am configuring the Azure API Management API to service a number of web APIs with different data formats. I want to allow the client (browser) to specify different data formats (JSON, XML, CSV) and I need to process them differently. I found the Agent SDK for 1.0 as the API reference, and it appears that document data format is not in. For 2.0, it says document/json/csv, however there is no mention of C# SDK. I have looked at the source code for version 1.0 of the SDK, and it looks like the only document data format that it supports is.txt. Does anyone know if version 1.0 of the SDK supports document/json/csv? And if so, does it include a C#

---

SDK? A: In SDK 1.0 you can just use payload with documents. The payload contains a property with type "Document" which you can use with a JSON (e.g. { "type" : "Document" }) and document/json/csv.
